A Set of Dickens' Works Free.

Being anxious to make a showing of 1900 new subscribers added during 1889, the COURIER has decided to make an unprecedented offer in order to accomplish that end. Commencing October 15 we will give to every new subscriber paying $2.50, a set of

12—TWELVE VOLUMES—12

of Charles Dickens' works, and send the COURIER from now until January 1, 1891. Addresses may be changed at any time without extra charge, in case of removal.

The books are neatly bound in paper covers and a paragon of excellence generally. Now is the time to subscribe. The COURIER for nearly fifteen months and a set of Dickens' works for only $2.50. Just think of it! The COURIER from now until Jan. 1, '91, would cost $2.50, and thus by ordering now you get a young library free.

Old subscribers may also take advantage of this by paying up arrears, if such be the case, and the amount as above specified.

Address all communications relative to the above to

Wessel Printing Co.,
Lincoln, Neb.

P. S.—If you would like the set of Dickens and don't care for more papers than you are now taking, the above offer also holds good for papers to be sent out of town.

A Powerful and Nobby Horse.

J. G. Roberts, one of the B. & M. company's most trustworthy engineers and the driver of the finest locomotive on the line, is now and has for some time past been a resident of this city. Roberts is as proud of his iron horse as any man could possibly be of a fire trotter. The cab is a model of neatness and the latest improvements, such as valves and mechanical contrivances, all his own property, go to make up its furnishings, and in most places where the ordinary steel or iron handle or finishing originally was used, there is now brilliant shining brass or copper instead. The mountings or fancy pieces on the boiler and about the pilot are also of gilded metal and thus the flying steel moves over the prairie the picture is made doubly attractive. And by the way, last Sunday as his engine, No. 240, was making up lost time it pulled twelve cars from Gretna to Chalco at a rate of sixty-six miles per hour. This is of course fast time, but with such careful and experienced men at the helm as Roberts everything goes smoothly, safely and swiftly over the Burlington.

Mr. Roberts has been at this, his favorite profession, for over fifteen years and during that period can say what very few others can, i. e. that he has never met with a wreck. This certainly is an excellent record. His regular run is between Lincoln and Pacific Junction and he makes a round trip daily.

A Valuable Present.

Commencing Monday, October 7th, Foreman & Crow, the elite furnishers for the fair sex, will give to each purchaser of one dollar's worth of goods, a ticket that entitles the holder to a chance on a beautiful and valuable sofa pillow. It is one just received, made of plush, handsomely embroidered and finished in the finest style. Don't forget when needing anything in their line to call. Your money will do double service at Foreman & Crow's.

Worthy of Patronage.

Of the several firms prominently identified with the coal interests of Lincoln, a new one appears to be taking front seats in the circle. About six weeks ago Messrs. Gordon F. Betts and W. H. Weaver opened business as successors to James Ledwith, with offices at 1045 O street, under the Capital National bank. The popularity of these gentlemen has been such as to prove valuable in their new undertaking, and already they enjoy a lucrative patronage. They handle all kinds of coal, as well as coke, wood and the usual line handled in their business. All orders receive a personal and prompt attention, and every precaution will be used to maintain the confidence of the trade. Give the new firm a trial. Telephone number 440 and lay in a supply of fuel for the winter.

Half of O Street Store Wanted.

A firm doing a legitimate and acceptable business will take on lease for term of year one-half or less of an O street store room. Must be between Tenth and Twelfth streets and north side preferable. Will pay good rent. References given. Address W. care this office.

A careful perusal of the COURIER today will certainly attract the attention of readers to a number of new and beautiful advertisements of our most prominent merchants, which it will pay all to read, reflect and act upon.
